INTRODUCTION

Instructions:

Provide a description of the university, program, and facilities as it specifically relates to the context of the program and compliance with accreditation standards. Indicate how the program is offered (residential, consortium, distance education, satellite/branch campus) and whether any of these modes of delivery are new to the program as of this application review.

In the introduction, you should describe several key elements about the university as well as the program, including the size of the institution, enrollment, description of the geographic area, the year the institution was founded, the type of university (public, private, for-profit plus Carnegie classification if known), degrees offered, college or school in which the program is located/housed, and any interesting facts.

You should not include rankings, such as those from US News and World Report.

Also include information specific to the program, specifically the number of credit hours and length, number of full-time faculty, and the program objectives.

Include name of any observers that participated in the site visit.

Tip: The home page of the university website and the program website have just this kind of high-level information.

SOURCES OF EVIDENCE

Instructions:

Remember to request the correct name (spelling) and title of individuals interviewed. Administrators often offer their business card – take it to make sure you get it right or check the university website. Only number and demographic data should be provided for clients, students, or public meeting attendees that participated in the site visit. Often, site visit teams will circulate a “sign-in sheet” at the beginning of the meeting, but you should never simply append those sheets to the report.

Delete the sources of evidence listed below that were not used. Add any additional sources of evidence used to verify requirements for review. Be sure to include everything you examined to verify compliance with all requirements for review.

SUMMARY

The purpose of this site visit report is to document the process, findings, and observations of the site visit team, by describing whether the team could verify evidence of compliance with accreditation standards and the data the team considered in that effort. There are 60 accreditation standards, grouped into 6 categories or areas. Under each Standard, there are Requirements for Review, which total 169 elements across the 60 standards for each professional program. The sources of evidence noted above were utilized to verify evidence of compliance with each of the Requirements listed under each Standard below <<except for those noted as non-verified.>>

Additionally, the site visit team also considered evidence to address CAA's Initial Observations, as noted under Standards <<identify by number the specific Standards where an Initial Observation was noted by the CAA or delete this sentence if there were no IOs.>>

Verified Standards and Requirements for Review: The site visit team was able to verify compliance with every specific Requirement for Review as noted under the Standards listed in the Site Visit Team Observations section below and on the Accreditation Standards Inventory <<except for those indicated below as non-verified.>>

Non-Verified Standards and Requirements for Review: The site visit team was not able to verify compliance with the specific Requirements for Review as noted under the Site Visit Team Observations section, specifically in relation to:

- Standard <identify standard number of any Requirement not verified>
- Standard <identify standard number of any Requirement not verified>

OR

Not Applicable, as all Standards/Requirements for Review were verified.

SITE VISIT TEAM OBSERVATIONS

Instructions:

Under each Standard's Requirement for Review below, if the CAA identified Initial Observations, provide narrative text explaining how that requirement was verified to address the Initial Observations. Begin each statement with "In their Initial Observations, the CAA noted..."

For any Standard or Requirement for Review that the site visit team was NOT able to verify compliance, please provide narrative text describing what was missing, evidence sources utilized to determine this, and why it was not verified. Begin each statement with "This requirement for review was not verified..."

For all Standards/Requirements for Review where the site visit team was able to verify compliance, no narrative text is needed, unless specially noted.

Standard 1.0 Administrative Structure and Governance

Instructions:

OPTIONAL: The site visit team may feel free to add additional narrative text here, describing how the program complies with this standard, if needed and as relevant to the entire Standard and all Requirements for Review.
